A Tale of Food & Friendship

by Nancy Garfinkel and Andrea Israel

“Told through letters and recipes, this novel traces the pair’s loving, competitive friendship from 1963, when the girls first meet, to the present. Telling Lies

Clues to Deceit in the Marketplace, Politics, and Marriage

Paul Ekman

The science behind the hit television series Lie to Me™

From breaking the law to breaking a promise, how do people lie and how can they be caught? Telling Lies describes how lies vary in form and how they can differ from other types of misinformation that can reveal untruths. It discusses how a person's body language, voice, and facial expressions can give away a lie but still fool professional lie hunters ... even judges, police officers, drug enforcement agents, and Secret Service agents. In this revised edition, Paul Ekman, a renowned expert in emotions research and nonverbal communication, adds a new chapter to present his latest research on his groundbreaking inquiry into lying and the methods for uncovering lies. Ekman has figured out the most important behavioral clues to deceit and he has done research that identifies the facial expressions that show whether someone is likely to become violent.

Paul Ekman, director of Paul Ekman Group, is the author of Emotions Revealed, Emotional Awareness (coauthored with the Dalai Lama), Why Kids Lie and eleven other books. The FOX series Lie to Me is based on his research. A professor emeritus at the University of California, San Francisco, he lives in the Bay area.

“Ekman [is] a pioneer in emotions research and nonverbal communication. . . . Accurate, intelligent, informative, and thoughtful.” —New York Times Book Review

“[A] wealth of detailed, practical information about lying and lie detection and a penetrating analysis of ethical implications.”

—Jerome D. Frank, The John Hopkins School of Medicine

Bringing Home the Birkin

My Life in Hot Pursuit of the World's Most Coveted Handbag

Michael Tonello

“The one-step, one-stop shop guide to buying a Birkin” —The Huffington Post

For more than twenty years the Hermès Birkin bag has been an iconic symbol of fashion, luxury and wealth. Though the bag is routinely seen dangling from the wrists of oft-photographed celebrities, regular folk have a better chance of climbing Mount Everest in Prada pumps than possessing one of these coveted carryalls. But as any clever fashionista knows, there must be some way to beat the system and traverse the minefield that is the legendary two-year-waiting list. BRINGING HOME THE BIRKIN is the witty, whirlwind account of his years spent working a special brand of magic to buy and resell hundreds of these beloved Birkins on eBay.

Michael Tonello grew up in Massachusetts. He traveled the world as a makeup artist and hairdresser until a chance job assignment in Spain proved fateful, and he resettled in Barcelona. Today he lives in Barcelona with his three soul mates—his partner, Juan, and his two cats, Gala and Dali.

“This summer’s most adorable chick-lit book. . . It’s smart. It’s fizzy. It’s amusingly snarky, with attitude to burn.” —New York Times
